MEMORY & MOVEMENT

CHARLOTTE

Navigating complexities. Together.

Providers

Charles H. Edwards II, MD

Founding Physician

Affected by his parents' dementia diagnoses, Dr. Edwards, a former cardiothoracic surgeon, received training in dementia care from Johns Hopkins medical institute and established Memory & Movement Charlotte in 2013.

Sanjay S. Iyer, MD

Medical Director, Neurologist

Dr. Iyer is a Movement Disorders Specialist who joined MMC in 2019 after serving as Chairman of Neurology and Director of Movement Disorders at Atrium Health. He was drawn to MMC's focus on caregiver education and support. He is a proponent of exercise and social interaction as means to slow progression of neurologic conditions.

Aris E. Chaconas, MD

Neurologist

Dr. Chaconas has practiced neurology for over 25 years, and joined MMC in 2017. Dr. Chaconas combines leading edge neurological diagnostic testing with a highly personalized patient engagement approach.

Robyn Wolkofsky, PA-C

Physician Assistant

Seeing the need to break down the walls of fear and misunderstanding that surround memory and movement disorders inspired Robyn to join MMC from its inception in 2013. Robyn co-led the launch of Take Charge!, MMC's caregiver education and support program.

What Makes Us Unique

Memory & Movement Charlotte is the premier practice in the greater Charlotte region that uses a multi-disciplinary Time & Attention approach to treat memory and movement disorders. We work closely with the entire care team, including primary care providers and other medical providers, to design a patient-centric plan of care for our patients and their caregivers.

Who We Are

Charlotte Neuroscience Foundation dba Memory & Movement Charlotte is a registered 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization that operates as a membership-style clinical practice.

Membership is $700 per year, allowing for the time and attention required to address memory and movement disorders and their unique challenges. Scholarships are available to those for whom this is a financial hardship. We accept Medicare and most major insurances.
